Greatest Battle Ever Seen Here.

FROM BARRY

Californian Wins Host of Friends by His Game-

Takes Worst Beating Schreck Ever Administered-Winner Has Best of Argument From Start.

With all due respect to Mike Schreck and without detracting one lota from the credit which belongs to him for putting up the fight of his life, in which he showed exceeding eleverness, ability to take punishment and give it, a large pertion of the honors in last night's boxing contest at the Salt Palace saucer must be given to Dave Barry, his opponent in the twenty-round argument for the lightheavyweight championship, for his won derful gameness

Barry's Wonderful Gameness.

Coming here practically an unknown quantity to the majority of the local sporting public, he certainty won an everlasting home in this city by standing up under the flercest fustilade of swings, jabs, hooks, uppercuts and ordinarily sleep-producing 'haymakers' that were ever shot into a man in the roped arena. His assimilation of Schreck's terrific drives and exhibition of pure, unadulterated Irish 'sand' was nothing short of marvellous, so our hats are off to you. Dave, and the keys of the city are at your disposal.

After the first round it was Schreck's fight, with the exception of the fourth, seventh and fifteenth rounds, when Barry steamed up and broke even with his adversary. Mike did practically all the leading and at different times drove the Californian all around, the ring with swings to the neck and head which would have put any ordinary man in dreamland, but Barry would take them all without batting an eye and come right back for more. Barry's Wonderful Gameness.

Schreck Shows His Cleverness. Schreck was exceedingly shifty in get-ting away from his opponent's left hooks and covered up splendidly, smothering many a punch which, if it had landed, might have put a different aspect on the

On several occasions he apparently had the Californian on Queer street, but the latter's remarkable recuperative powers sent litm back to the firing line full of ginger Barry shifted his tactics several times during the contest, but the Dutchman quickly sized up the play and always had something coming to offset Dave's every move.

Schreck Changes His Tactics.

Schreck Changes His Tactics.

Schreck changed his style of work in the latter part of the fight and began playing for his epponent is stomach and ribs, giving up his idea of knocking Barry's head off, as that portion of the trishman's anatomy seemed invulnerable. This move on Schreck's part soon showed its effectiveness and in the last five rounds Mike simply layed back for the knockout wallop, but up to the last thirty seconds of time in the final round it looked as if the sturdy lad from the coast would be on his feet when the gong sounded for the finish.

Schreck worked like a beaver to put Barry' to the mat and fairly wore himself cut in his endeavors to land the 'dope' punch. Time and again he would swing left and right to Dave's law and neck, slamming his opponent all over the ring, but the blows lacked the necessary steam and it was an even bet at the end of the rinetenth round that Barry would last. But that was where those who did not know the fighting Dutchman's ability and wonderful reserve power were fooled.

Schreck Goes After Barry.

Schreck Goes After Barry.

When the bell rang for the beginning of the twentieth and final round Schreck went after his man like a tiger. Casting aside all defense he rained right and left swings on the exhausted Barry's head, face neck and jaw until he had the Callfornian so helpless that he could hardly put up his mit to block a blow and forced him around the ring, landing when and where he chose. Forcing him against the ropes in the southwest corner of the ring, after nearly knocking Barry out into the crowd several times. Mike staggered Barry with a left hook to the jaw and then whipped over a terrific right-hand swing to the back of Dave's neek, dropping him like a log. Barry rolled over on his back underneath the ropes, where he lay gasping as Referes Bean counted the fatal seconds. Gamely he tried to get on his feet to continue, but his manager. Alse Greggains, seeing that the case was hopeless and wishing to save the nerry Irish lad from further punishment, jumped into the ring and called the proceedings off, Referce Pean awarding the fight to Schreck. Three thousand people witnessed the fight, which was the best battle ever seen in the West.
